Synopsis

The brutal murders of two funeral directors, one Apache and one White, have Sheriff Zeb Hanks teaming up with San Carlos Tribal Police Chief Rambler Braing to solve the crimes quickly. The list of suspects in the murders grows with every new lead. The peculiar coffee shop owner who is also an evangelic snake handler, the tribal chair, the tribal chair's wife and even the missing Apache man's brother are all prime suspects. During the investigation it is revealed that a mysterious collector of historic Apache artifacts is hiring people to dig up Apache graves. New to the sheriff's team, Deputy Devon Dawbyns clearly has motives other than keeping the peace in Graham County. Dawbyns's connections to Washington, D.C. and the FBI have Zeb scrambling to keep his own personal demons a secret as he works to solve the mounting crimes in Graham County.

Customer Reviews

The plot and its development is unique and interesting. It is a pretty skillful tale, with enough twist and turns to throw me off just when I thought I had it figured out. The story dived in with mystery and suspense. It continued full speed ahead and kept my interest throughout. Parts are somewhat forced and improbable; however, it is fairly fast paced with a definite bit of imagination on the part of the author. There are several colorful despicable characters and some passages with rather descriptive crude behavior and a dribble of language that might be offensive to some readers. There are; however, a handful of decent likable essential characters to the story. The hero, Sheriff Zeb Hank's expertise, his personality, his knowledge, and his straight-on approach to homicide investigations make him more human to the reader. His staff is a very supportive and likable bunch of police officers. Many evil doings abound in this book starting off with the brutal murders of two funeral home employees. The solving of this case teams Sheriff Zeb Hanks with Apache Police Chief Rambler Raing. Not only does Zeb have two murders that he needs to solve quickly, but it seems that a body, awaiting a funeral, has disappeared from the funeral home. There are bunches of suspects in the murders. But wait, more bodies seem to be piling up, and maybe there are grave robbers to be apprehended as well! The sheriff is indeed in the midst of more than one criminal investigation. Then there is a preppy big city boy who is now Zeb's new deputy. Zeb Hanks recent past is beginning to haunt him as FBI Agent Rodriguez drops by and is full of questions and innuendos concerning Zeb's vacation in Mexico. Also the new deputy has big time political connections and ambitions.
